1996 Outlook

Success. It is an intricate process getting to that seven-letter word. It's a journey, not a destination. It is not just a matter of having all the pieces in one place. Like a 500-piece jigsaw puzzle, all the pieces must fit perfectly in order for the final picture to come to fruition. Success is an art, and Maryland head coach Sasho Cirovski is painting an illustrious photo.

During his soccer tenure, Cirovski has been able to master his art like no one else. Now in his fourth season at the helm of the Maryland soccer program, Cirovski can clearly see the pieces falling into place as the Terp puzzle once again begins to take shape. The prospects are enormous.

Add a new twist — five Atlantic Coast Conference teams ranked in the top 10 in the preseason — and the puzzle gets a little more complicated, which suits Cirovski just fine. Maryland meets two of those ranked opponents—Virginia and Clemson—on the road, and welcomes Duke and North Carolina to College Park.

"We take on one of the most competitive schedules in the country. It is just the type of challenge we want," said Cirovski. "If we can survive through the season and continue to improve as we make our run towards the NCAA Tournament, we will be very good."

While the loss of multi-talented leaders Tod Herskovitz, Doug Smith and Stephen Campbell to graduation creates a challenge, Cirovski returns a young and tenacious squad, who mustered something from deep down inside last year to pace the Terps to their second-straight NCAA Tournament appearance. A performance that left Cirovski nodding knowingly and anticipating what was yet to come.

"Last year there was a disappointment in the way we ended. We expected to go further and losing in penalty kicks to James Madison was devastating," said Cirovski. "Sometimes, though, you learn more from a loss like that than you do from a win."

The 1996 season began as soon as the 1995 season ended. "The loss brought the team closer together, and set them on a greater mission. There is a sense of belief from the first person to the last person on this team. Each one believes we can do something special this year," said Cirovski.

Leading the pack

Cirovski may get just the leadership he needs to accomplish all of the goals from the Terrapin senior duo of Shane Dougherty and Russell Payne. The two All-America candidates will provide a solid foundation for what could be the Terrapins most impressive showcase of talent in a number of years. In addition, Cirovski also welcomes back the quiet leadership and tenacious work ethic of seniors Matt Larson and Chris Preheim.

"These are the kids that I recruited three years ago when I took over a very poor program. They endured a 3-14-1 season. They epitomize the blue-collar-work-ethic type of people that built the program," Cirovski said fondly. "You have to credit them for strapping up their boots, getting their hands dirty and building this program."

The Maryland Goalkeepers

Cirovski continues to add firepower to the Terrapin goalkeeper crew. Senior All-America candidate Russell Payne returns as Maryland's top goalie. Joining the veteran Payne is newcomer Andy Kirk. The 1995 Gatorade Player of the Year, Kirk was the starting goalkeeper for the U.S. under-20 team who qualified for the World Youth Championships.

"The day Andy Kirk committed to Maryland already made Russell Payne a better goalkeeper. Russell has not had quality competition for a position the last three years, and because of that, has not been pushed," said Cirovski. "Andy can play for any program in the country and can play for us from day one."

A starter in all 21 games last season, Payne has played every minute of every game the last two years. The Ellicott City, Md., native recorded a conference-leading seven shutouts, and was among the leaders in goals allowed average and saves.

"Russell Payne has developed into one of the best goalkeepers in the country. He has been one of the better keepers in the ACC for years but hasn't taken that next step in positioning himself among the best. This will be his year."

The Maryland Defense

Maryland's defense will be represented by a veteran cast of talented players. The Terps return two full-time starters, juniors Leo Cullen and R.T. Moore. Moore was one of the top players in the ACC, as well as in the nation, who helped solidify the Terps in the back. He is often assigned to shadow the opponent's top offensive threat and will once again be given that chore in 1996. He is equally as powerful on the offensive side of the ball as he scored the game-winning goal against Richmond last season.

Cullen, this year's team captain and a First-Team All-ACC selection last season, is in his second year at the sweeper position after moving from the defensive midfield following his freshman season. He has extraordinary skills at anchoring and directing the defense. Cullen can also ignite an offensive sparkplug to the Terp squad. Adding fuel to the fire is senior Chris Preheim, junior Joe Marshburn and sophomore Kevin Walsh who should turn it up a notch after gaining valuable experience last season. Preheim is a versatile athlete, playing at both the defender and midfield positions, and will challenge for a starting position at either spot. Marshburn will start at the stopper or man-marking position.

"It is the first year since I have been here that we return our whole starting defense," said Cirovski. Our backline is among the best in our league and in the country."

The Maryland Midfield

Despite the departure of Herskovitz and Smith, Maryland's midfield unit will once again be loaded with depth and talent. Among the returnees who will fuel the powerful Terrapin midfield contingent is senior Matt Larson. Larson has been a major contributor to Maryland's success the past two seasons, and is a candidate for 1996 ACC honors as well as national honors.

Also back to provide reinforcements for the Terrapins are sophomore sensations Steve Armas, Keith Beach and Judah Cooks. The three will combine in the midfield to form one of the most lethal combinations in the ACC. Beach, one of the most heralded freshman in Maryland history last season, made an immediate impact in the Terp midfield, scoring six goals and chipping in three assists. Armas also enjoyed a spectacular first season in a Maryland uniform. He played in all 21 games and scored six points. Cooks, a late edition to the '95 team, made a positive impact his freshman season. He started in seven of eight games, scoring three goals and added one assist. Cooks is equally fearsome on the frontline and will likely see playing time at both positions.

The new pieces of the puzzle come in the form of sophomore transfer Randy Merkel, and freshmen Jason Bent and Jamie Eichmann. Each bring a wealth of experience and talent to the Maryland club. Merkel comes to Maryland after a year at Penn State. He competed on the same club team (Chicago Pegasus) as fellow Terp teammates R.T. Moore and Leo Cullen. Bent was one of the top performers the U.S. U-20 Canadian National team which won the gold medal at the CONCAFAF games. Eichmann was named Player of the Year on the 1995 Ozaukee County (Wis.) Boys Soccer team and set his high schools season scoring record with 31 goals. All three players will add depth to possibly one of the best midfield units in the ACC.

The Maryland Frontline

Again playing the lead role among Maryland's strikers is senior Shane Dougherty, the Terps' top returning player and candidate for All-America and All-ACC honors. The Kingsville, Md., native recorded five goals and had seven assists during his junior season. His 61 total career points ranks him ninth in the record books, while his 15 career assists ties him for fourth among Terp leaders. He will be complimented and challenged by junior Mike McIlwain, sophomore Pierre Venditti and freshman Jason Cropley.

McIlwain is one of Maryland's top returning scorers. He returned with a vengeance last season after a foot injury silenced him much of his freshman year. He scored four goals, two of which were game-winners.

"Mike has a tremendous nose for the goal. He has a very uncanny ability to be at the right place at the right time which makes him dangerous," said Cirovski. "He is a nice compliment to Shane (Dougherty) and Pierre (Venditti)."

Venditti is one of Maryland's most potent scorers and controls the offensive zone with a confidence beyond his years. Evidence of his abilities were clearly made present in the Terps' 2-0 win over N.C. State a year ago. Venditti, named to the Soccer America Team of the Week after his gutsy performance, scored both goals in the win.

Newcomer Jason Cropley was listed as one of the top 25 high school prospects in the U.S. according to USA Today, and was a starter on the U.S. U-17 Dallas Cup champion team, the California Flyers, in 1995.

The Final Piece

It appears Cirovski is loaded up for another successful run at the national crown. The puzzle will gradually be put together as the season progresses and the Terrapins take on some of the best teams in the nation. That final piece may very well take the form of an NCAA Championship trophy this season.

"Everyone on this team wants to achieve the ultimate, the NCAA Championship. We talk about it all of the time. We don't measure everything we do by it, but clearly, if we are going to climb a mountain, we are going to climb the highest mountain," concludes Cirovski.

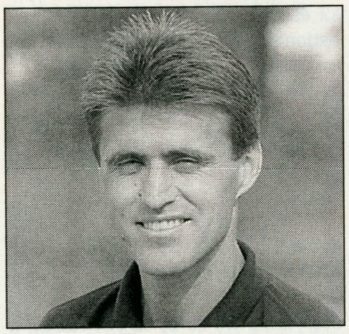
Sasho Cirovski Head Coach

Sasho Cirovski
Head Coach



Sasho Cirovski was hired in February of 1993 to revitalize a once-proud program. Cirovski, an energetic coach from Vratncia, Macedonia, had just taken the University of Hartford's men's program to the NCAA Tournament during his last two seasons. He arrived on the College Park campus talking about winning a national championship immediately.

Athletic administrators lauded Maryland's decision to hire Cirovski after only two years as a full-time head coach on the Division I level. Those within the soccer world proclaimed an instant turnaround for the Terps' program, once one of the best in the nation. Soccer enthusiasts will say they saw success coming instantly for Cirovski at Maryland.

Now, after the Terps' historic turnaround in the past three years, few are snickering at his lofty expectations.

In only three short seasons, Sasho Cirovski has directed the lightning-fast return of Maryland soccer to the national spotlight. He has taken a team that won only 10 games in the two years prior to his arrival to the doorstep of national prominence, including back-to-back NCAA Tournament appearances in 1994 and 1995.

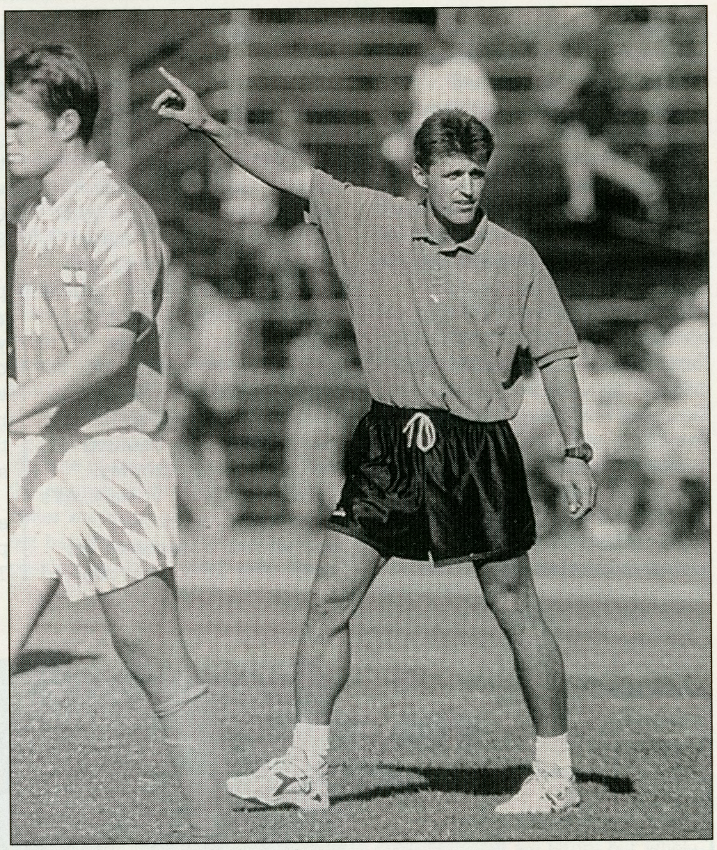
The Terps reached the second round of the NCAA Tournament in 1994 and fashioned a 14-6-1 record. The 4-3 win over Georgetown in the NCAA Tournament was the first for the program since 1969, and was the first time since 1986 that the Terps had appeared in the Tournament. The Terps' improvement from 3-14-1 during Cirovski's first season to 14-6-1 record in 1994 marks the greatest single season turnaround in the 42-year history of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

In 1995, the Terps finished with a 13-6-2 record and again advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament. They finished second in the ACC with a 4-1-1 record, and ended the year ranked as high as No. 15 by Soccer America.

At Hartford, Cirovski energized a team that had finished in the middle of the New England Region rankings during its first few years at the Division I level. In only his first year at Hartford, Cirovski guided the Hawks to their first ever NCAA Tournament appearance and first ever North Atlantic Conference championship. Hartford defeated Columbia in the first round of the NCAA Tournament and took Virginia, the eventual NCAA Champion to four overtimes before losing. Cirovski duplicated several of those feats the next season as Hartford won its second consecutive NAC Championship and played in the NCAA Tournament for the second consecutive season. Cirovski's first two collegiate seasons were as successful as any in the collegiate ranks. He guided the Hawks to back-to-back 13-6-3 records and became one of only a handful of coaches to take teams to the NCAA Tournament in his first two years as a head coach.

Cirovski developed an excellent coaching reputation over a three-year period as a Division I assistant at his alma mater, Wisconsin-Milwaukee, from 1988-1990. Cirovski learned under the watchful eye of Bob Gansler, the former United States World Cup Head Coach and Director of Coaching for the U.S. Soccer Federation. During the spring of 1989, Cirovski served as the interim head coach while Gansler attended to his duties at the 1990 World Cup Championship Tournament in Italy. From the spring of 1988 through the spring of 1991, Cirovski was an assistant coach at UWM. To cap his final season, the team made the NCAA Tournament for the fist time in more than a decade.

Prior to beginning his coaching career at UWM, he spent parts of three seasons as a professional player and coach with teams in the Canadian Soccer League and the National Professional Soccer League. His first taste of coaching came in 1987 in the CSL.



Cirovski holds an "A" coaching license for the U.S. Soccer Federation and an advanced national diploma from the National Soccer Coaches of America. He served on the staff of the USSF Region II (Midwest) Olympic Development Program and since 1992 has been a member of the Region I (East) ODP coaching staff. He currently is coaching the Under-18 team. He has also worked as an assistant coach with the U.S. Under-20 national team and is a USSF National Coaching School staff coach.

Cirovski is a native of Yugoslavia and now a naturalized U.S. citizen. He grew up in a Vratanica, a small village in Macedonia. His family moved to Ontario, Canada when he was eight years old.

He was a four-year varsity letter winner at Wisconsin-Milwaukee. He received his undergraduate (1985) and master's (1989) degrees in business administration from the school.

He directs the successful Sasho Cirovski Maryland Soccer Camp each summer. After only three years in existence, the camp has grown to be one of the most well attended in the Mid-Atlantic Region.

Cirovski and his wife Shannon Higgins, the head women's coach at George Washington University, reside in Laurel, Md., with their daughters, two-year old Hailey and newborn Karli.

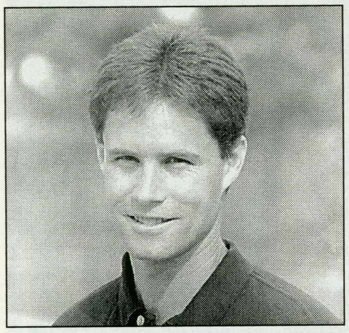
Jeff Rohrman
Assistant Coach



Jeff Rohrman is in his second year as an assistant coach at the University of Maryland. He comes to Maryland from the U.S. Naval Academy where he was an assistant coach for the women's soccer team and a physical education instructor.

As Cirovski's chief assistant, Rohrman is involved in all phases of the program. His duties include all on- and off-campus recruiting of prospective student-athletes, player development, opponent scouting and general program administration.

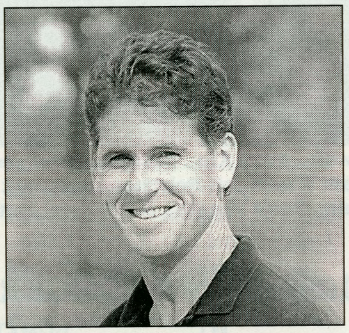
Rohrman, a 1986 graduate of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, served as the chief assistant coach for women's soccer at the U.S. Naval Academy from March of 1994 through June of 1995. There, he acquired experience in eligibility tracking, community relations, scheduling, advising and budget management in addition to his on-field coaching duties. Previously, he had served the United States Soccer Federation as its National Team Coordinator and the U.S. Olympic Committee as an intern coordinating the competition of the Under-20 national team. He was also the head coach of the Bethany Lutheran College men's team from March of 1990 through December of 1991.

Rohrman played collegiately for two years at Wisconsin-Milwaukee and for two years at Bethany Lutheran College. While a player at UWM he served as the team captain, was voted the team MVP and earned All-State honors following his senior season. Rohrman played alongside Terp head coach Sasho Cirovski while at UWM in 1984. He was an All-American selection at Bethany Lutheran following his sophomore season. Rohrman participated in the 1986 Olympic Soccer Festival in Houston. He played professionally with the Milwaukee Wave of the American Indoor Soccer League in 1986 and 1987. He was a starter for the Real Santa Barbara Soccer Club of the Western Soccer League during the summer of 1989.

Rohrman earned his bachelor's degree in zoology from Wisconsin-Milwaukee in 1986 and his Master of Arts degree in physical education and sports administration from Mankato (Minn.) State in 1991.

Rohrman is married to the former Nancy Kramarz and the couple lives in Crofton, Md.

Steve Powers
Assistant Coach



Steve Powers enters his sixth season as an assistant coach at the University of Maryland. The former standout goalkeeper for the Terps, Powers returned to College Park as an assistant coach in 1989.

A Baltimore, Md., native, Powers was a two-year starter for the Terps in 1984 and 1985.

Powers was the starting goalie for the Maryland Bays of the American Professional Soccer League from 1987 through 1991. The Bays won the 1990 APSL National Championship, defeating San Francisco in the league championship series. Powers was named the Most Valuable Player of the series.

Powers was chosen to play in the North American Cup Challenge following the 1990 APSL Championship Series. Though the Bays were defeated by the Vancouver 86'ers in overtime, Powers was selected the game's MVP.

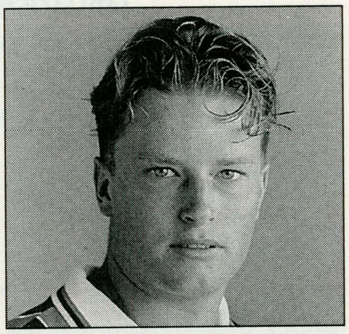
Powers signed and played with the Baltimore Blast of the Major Indoor League during the 1992 season.

Powers won four varsity letters as a member of the Terps. He was the full-time starter during the 1983 and 1984 seasons. He closed his career with a stellar 0.98 goals against average and eight shutouts. He played in 52 games and recorded 159 saves. He was a member of Maryland's 1986 NCAA Tournament team.

When he is not coaching soccer, Powers is heavily involved in community relations. He was a member of the Mayor's Council for Athletes against Drugs in the City of Baltimore. He also works as a literacy volunteer for area schools.

Power's coaching experience includes many soccer camps at the University of Maryland and numerous other camps and clinics run on the East Coast. He is a frequent guest speaker on the area of goaltending at clinics in the Maryland area.

Steve Campbell
Undergraduate Assistant Coach



Steve Campbell begins his first season as an undergraduate assistant coach for the Terrapins, but he is no stranger to Maryland soccer. Campbell was an outstanding player at Maryland from 1992-95. The England native appeared in 49 games during his Terrapin career, scoring two goals and adding five assists.

He was a three-sport athlete in high school, earning letters in soccer, cricket and tennis. He led the Dronfield School soccer team to league and city championships.

Campbell holds a "B" coaching license for the U.S. Soccer Federation. He is currently working on a degree in physical education from Maryland.

A Look Back at 1995

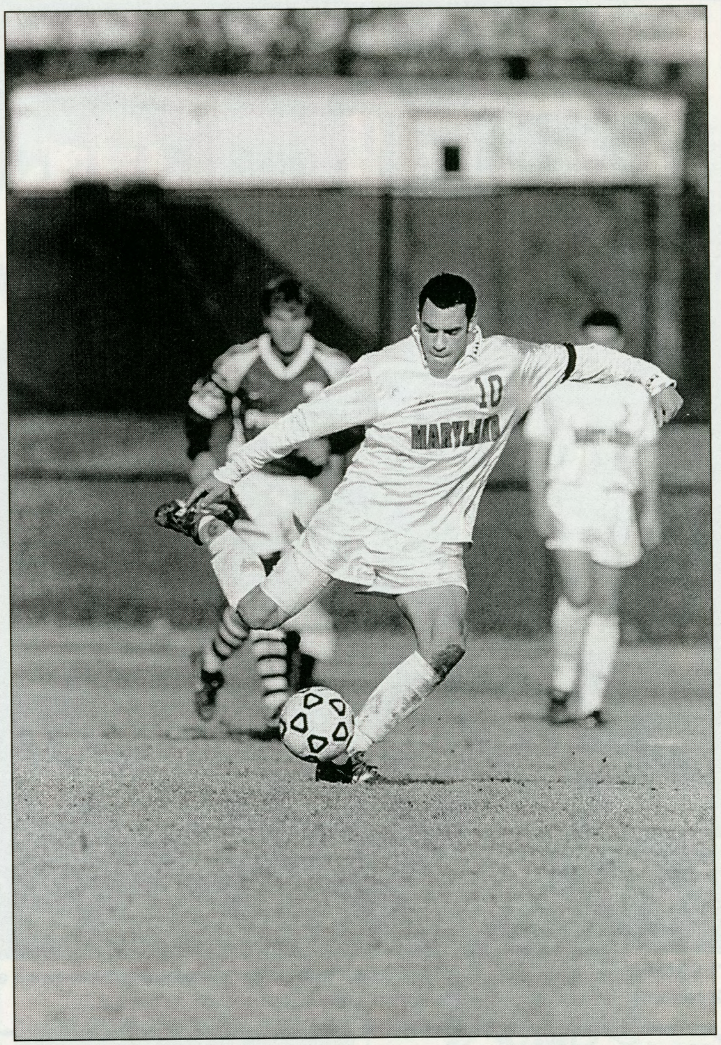
It was a year of anticipation and dreams fulfilled for the Maryland men's soccer team. Anticipation of taking on the challenge of charging to the top. The dreams were many. Dreams such as finishing at the top of the Atlantic Coast Conference; winning the ACC Tournament; hosting the first and second rounds of the NCAA Tournament; and finally, making a trip to Richmond, Virginia, for the 1995 NCAA Championship Tournament. It was that national title that was to be the crowning glory of the Terrapins' dream season.

With goals and minds set, Maryland proceeded with its game plan. The players quickly pulled together to produce one of the toughest and most balanced teams in the nation. A team that ripped through the season, finely executing what they had learned from an equally committed coaching staff. A team who advanced to the "Sweet 16" of the NCAA Tournament for the second consecutive season. A team that finished with a 4-1-1 conference record, good for a second-place finish, and its highest ACC finish since 1976. But when the final point of the season was scored, it came a little too soon for the Terps, whose dream ended prematurely in a grueling sudden-death overtime match against James Madison in the second round of the NCAA Championship. Yet despite the early ending, there was no denying that it was a great year for Terrapin soccer.

With co-captains Tod Herskovitz and Doug Smith guiding the way, Maryland remained steady among the top ten teams in the nation. The Terps eased into the No. 2 spot on the Soccer America poll for the first time ever in program history. They quickly raced out to a 5-0-1 record, en route to a 13-6-2 overall record. Along the way, they defeated then-No. 17 N.C. State (2-0); then-No. 2 Duke (2-1); and then-No. 9 Penn State (2-0). Seven of the 13 wins were shutouts, including one in ACC competition and one in NCAA Tournament play. Two Terps earned All-ACC honors with Leo Cullen garnering first-team honors and Herskovitz named to the second-team.

As the season progressed, the accolades continued to pour in. Shane Dougherty was named to the Soccer America Men's Team of the Week after scoring the overtime goal that gave the Terps a 2-2 tie with then-top-ranked Virginia. A week later Pierre Venditti collected Team of the Week honors after scoring both goals in the Terps' win over then-No. 17 ranked N.C. State. Herskovitz continued to collect more honors as he was named a second-team Soccer News All-America.

The Terps ended the year ranked 15th after never failing to appear in the polls all season long. And after all was said and done, Maryland fans could look back upon the season, smile, and exclaim that without a doubt, 1995 was a year of dreams fulfilled.



Senior co-captain Tod Herskovitz was named Second Team All-ACC and was a second-team Soccer News All-American selection in 1995.

Terrapin fans gathered to witness Maryland's 2-2 tie over than-No. 1-ranked Virginia.

Academic Support

There is an insistence at the University of Maryland that student-athletes get a degree in a career field that will enhance their life after College Park. The insistence is underlined by Coach Sasho Cirovski and his staff, by the athletic administration and by the Academic Support Unit of the Department of Athletics.

A successful student almost always equates to a successful athlete. The commitment to academic excellence requires discipline, dedication and motivation. These are the same characteristics needed for an athlete to excel on the field or court.

Toward the goal of a successful academic experience for each student-athlete, the athletic department created the Academic Support Unit. Each ASU staff member is responsible for working with specific sports, counseling each student-athlete individually.

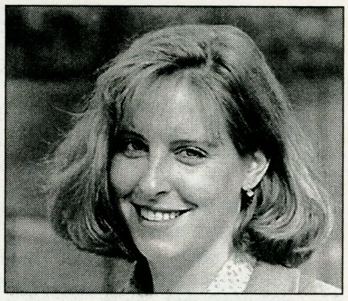
The department operates an ever-expanding computer room and an extensive library of the books an athlete will need through his academic career.

ASU organizes over 100 tutors from all academic disciplines. Student-athletes can receive specialized one-on-one training in any class by a qualified tutor.

The academic support unit provides a comprehensive and balanced program for all student-athletes at the University of Maryland.

The Academic Support Unit provides the following benefits to Maryland student-sthletes:

*Personal academic assessment
*Academic advising and counseling
*Supervised study
*Learning and study skills programs
*Computer training and usage
*Group and individual tutoring
*Career mentoring
*Summer internships



Heather Lowe serves as the academic advisor to the men's soccer team.

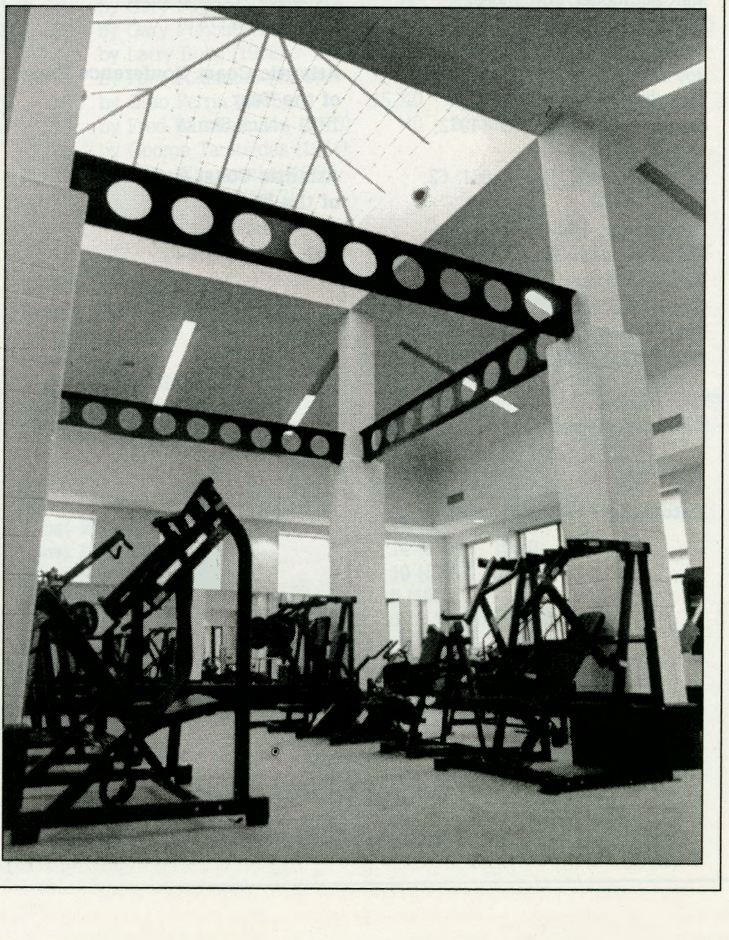
Strength & Conditioning

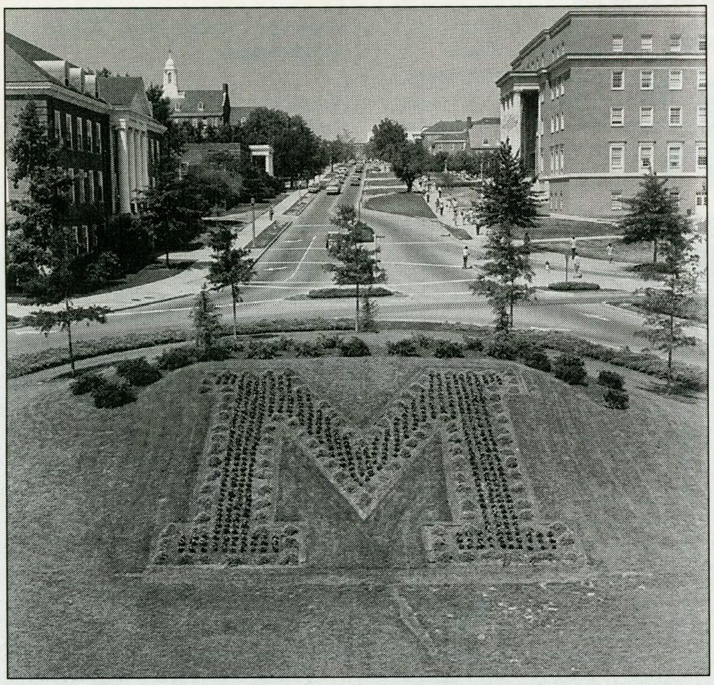
Barry Kagan works with the men's soccer team to guarantee a successful strength and conditioning program.

Before the men's soccer team can compete at its finest, the strength and conditioning staff prepares the athletes for game day. Proper training in the offseason leads to top performances by individuals and winning records for the team as a whole. The Terrapins utilize the most innovative equipment in strength training with access to a state-of-the-art weight room. This new technology ensures that the athletes are in prime condition to enter competition.

Barry Kagan works closely with the men's soccer team to guarantee a successful program. Kagan began working with Maryland athletic teams over three years ago while still a student in College Park. He earned a bachelor's degree in kinesiological sciences in December of 1995 after completing a thesis in which he compared 40-yard sprint times among female collegiate athletes. Kagan was also a Terrapin cheerleader during his collegiate career.



Here's Maryland



A trip across College Park reveals a university which has changed markedly in the 1990s. Almost a half-billion dollars worth of construction has recently taken place or is on-going. A campus already known for its beauty is getting better. Academically, College Park's peers are the best public universities in America.

A trip across the state of Maryland reveals deep tradition, too. Washington, D.C.'s monuments and national historic treasures are just miles away, the building housing the nation's archives is on campus. Historic sites in Baltimore have Edgar Allan Poe and Babe Ruth's names on them, and Annapolis has witnessed much of the nation's history.

Baltimore's Inner Harbor and Annapolis's waterways lead into the Chesapeake Bay, with room for thousands of sailboats. There is an ocean on the state's eastern shore; its western boundaries are ringed by the Blue Ridge and Allegheny mountains.

College Park is surrounded by opportunities in sports and the arts, by chances to visit mountains or shore. It's a good location.

- Washington, D.C. is three miles from Byrd Stadium. The National Capital's major attractions are within 10 miles. Making the trip easy is the Metro Rail System, which began connecting College Park to the rest of suburban Maryland, the District of Columbia, and Northern Virginia, in December of 1993. Campus shuttles serve the College Park station, allowing easy access to one of the country's model transportation systems.
- Baltimore is located 35 miles north of the College Park campus. Its rejuvenation as an urban center is unprecedented: The Inner Harbor, its National Aquarium and tall ships, and the near-by Orioles Park at Camden Yards, create an exciting, vibrant, holiday atmosphere in a city that boasts one of the world's great sea ports. The heart of Maryland, the Chesapeake Bay, is 20 miles from campus, and the state capital, Annapolis, is 30 miles.
- Washington and Baltimore may be reached easily from anywhere in the United States and the World. USAir, which is headquartered in the Metropolitan area, uses Baltimore/Washington International Airport as a hub. Both BWI and Dulles Airport, which is a hub for United Airlines, are international airports, capable or providing service to any continent. College Park is 10 minutes from the Amtrak Northeast Corridor Line and frequent train service along the East Coast.
